Join IPPS in Growing the Future of Plant Production!

*Introducing the International Plant Production Society
(formerly the International Plant Propagators' Society)*

The International Plant Production Society (IPPS) has reimagined its mission to better reflect the evolving needs of the green industry. With a new name and brand-new website, we are strengthening our commitment to innovation, education, and collaboration in plant production.

Why the change?

Plant production has grown beyond propagation – encompassing sustainable practices, technology advancements, and industry-wide excellence in all stages of the plant production process. Our new identity embraces this expanded vision while continuing to provide the world-class networking and knowledge-sharing that IPPS is known for.

A Fresh Digital Experience

Our newly designed website launched in the Summer of 2025 offering:

- Easier access to research and best practices through our 70+ years of Proceedings
- Enhanced member resources and networking tools
- A modernized, user-friendly interface
- New sponsorship opportunities to expand your reach through specialized logo and short video areas

Be Part of the Growth!

IPPS invites industry leaders to support this exciting transformation through sponsorships that showcase your brand to a global audience of plant production professionals.

Sponsorship Benefits Include:

- Brand exposure on our website, events, and publications
- Direct engagement with industry experts and decision-makers through comp registrations to regional conferences
- Opportunities to feature your innovations and expertise

Join us as we cultivate the next era of plant production!
